Top Homeowner Cost & Insurance Questions

Q: Do I need a permit to remove an oak tree in Folsom, CA? Under City of Folsom Tree Preservation Ordinance Chapter 12.16 (Protected Native Oaks >= 6 inches DBH), native oak trees with a trunk diameter of 6 inches or greater at breast height require a Tree Removal Permit—UNLESS the tree has fallen or poses an immediate emergency threat to life or structures.

Q: Who pays when a neighbor's tree falls into my yard in Folsom? In California, if a storm blows over a neighbor's healthy tree onto your home, garage, or fence, your own homeowners insurance policy covers removing the tree from the structure and repairing the damage. However, if the neighbor's tree was visibly dead or decaying and they ignored prior notice, the neighbor may be held liable.

Q: How much does emergency tree removal cost in Folsom? Standard daytime removal for a medium tree in Folsom runs $1,100 to $2,400. If a large 60-to-80-foot oak or pine has fallen onto a roof or requires a 40-ton crane and emergency rigging crew, costs range from $2,500 to $6,500 and are typically billable to homeowners insurance.

Q: How much does stump grinding cost in Folsom, CA? Professional stump grinding in Folsom costs between $225 and $650 per stump depending on root flare diameter, with discounted rates for grinding multiple stumps on the same trip. Our rubber-track grinder fits through standard 36-inch gates.
